Senate OKs Salary Hike Of $7,500

To Finish Action On $564 Million Federal Pay Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate completes action today on a $564-million federal pay raise bill after voting to retain in it a $7,500 - yearly increase for each member of Congress.

The senators beat down three efforts Wednesday to strike out the increases for senators and representatives.

Senate passage will send the legislation back to the House for consideration of several changes the Senate made in the original bill.

There is little likelihood, however, that the measure will reach President Johnson for signing before Congress recesses for the Republican National Convention, which begins July 13 in San Francisco.

The House is scheduled to begin its convention recess at the end of this week.

In the three key votes Wednesday, the Senate:

Defeated 60 to 25 an amendment of Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., to knock out the $4.1 - million in raises for the 100 senators and 435 House members.

Turned back 64 to 21 a proposal of Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, to delete $20.8 million in pay increases for members of Congress and their staffs, federal executives and U.S. judges.

Rejected 53 to 32 an amendment of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to eliminate the $9.6 - million of increases for senators and representatives and their staffs.

Proxmire conceded he was "having trouble with my wife on this issue," but said no sound arguments had been advanced for raising congressional pay from $22,500 to $30,000.

"How can we say we are cutting government spending when we raise our own pay 33 1-3 per cent?" he asked and then added: "Only one family in the nation out of 50 now receives $22,500 or more."

"All of us know full well it doesn't take any increase to get competent, talented and able men to run for Congress. We have too much competition now."

Man, 65, Dies After Farm Tractor Flips

A farm accident late Wednesday afternoon took the life of a 65-year-old Salem Area farmer when the tractor he was driving flipped over in a hayfield and exploded, pinning him underneath.

The victim, Earl R. Kurtz, 65, of Garfield Rd., Salem R. D. 5, was mowing hay on a hillside when the mishap occurred. Four other men who were in the field with him succeeded in righting the overturned vehicle by the time Greenford volunteer firemen arrived, but it was not in time to save him.

The firemen quickly extinguished the burning grass and Mr. Kurtz was rushed to Salem City Hospital, where he was pronounced dead at 6:55 p. m.

Dr. William Kolozsi, Columbiana County coroner ruled accidental death.

Born April 23, 1899, in Fairfield Township, he was the son of Amos and Sarah Blosser Kurtz. A life resident of the area, he engaged in general farming for many years.

He was a member of the Mennonite Church and a charter member of the Mahoning County Farm Bureau.

Surviving are his widow, the former Mollie Lehman, whom he married Oct. 22, 1924; a daughter, Miss Anna Marie Kurtz, a Mennonite missionary who has been serving in Ghana, West Africa; three sons, Raymond, Wilbur and Edgar, all of Salem R. D. 5; a sister, Mrs. Harvey Rohrer of Columbiana; a brother, Elmer Kurta of Columbiana R. D. 1, and nine grandchildren.

Services will be at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Midway Mennonite Church, with John Overholt officiating. Burial will be in Midway Cemetery.

Friends may call after 2 p. m. Friday at the Kurtz home.

Union, Firm Agree

Woodbine Slated To Open Monday Under New Pact

The Woodbine Laundry & Dry Cleaning Co. will return to business Monday after employees accepted a management offer Wednesday night providing for a new three-year contract with wage increases and some other benefits, Mayor Merrill D. Hall said today.

The agreement ended a two-week strike by Local 1, International Laundry, Dry Cleaning and Dye House Workers, and rescinded the company's announcement that it would cease business.

Mayor Hall said 32 of 33 union members met last night in Council chambers and voted heavily in favor of accepting the offer after a two - hour meeting. A meeting also had been held yesterday afternoon between management, union and employee representatives, the mayor said, when the offer was made.

THE NEW pact provides a 3-cent hourly increase for women in the first year and 2 cents an hour more for each of the next two years. Drivers will receive $1.50 more a week for the first year and 25 cents more a week for the next two years, Mayor Hall said. Their 14 per cent commission remains unchanged.

Women employees had been paid between $1 and $1.04 hourly, while drivers received $12.50 a week previously.

The union had asked 5 cents more an hour for each of three years while drivers had been seeking $5 more a week in base pay. Both also had asked for welfare benefits.

Some drivers returned to work today to begin delivering items which had been in the plant when the strike started on June 16.

The company announced the following day it had ceased operations because it would be unable to meet contract demands.

DESPITE THE company's announcement, the union had continued to picket the laundry on W. 4th St. and the dry cleaning plant on Pennsylvania Ave.

The contract expired May 25 but negotiations had been under way since mid-March and a federal mediator had been called in to attempt to iron out the dispute a few days before the strike started.

Mayor Hall expressed his appreciation to James Walker and Richard Walker, officers of the laundry firm; Albert Mercanto of Youngstown, district chairman and business representative; Peter Formica of Cleveland, secretary - treasurer of Local 1, employees and John Eiferd, who worked to bring the two sides together.

$3.3 Billion Approved

President Hails House OK Of Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has hailed House passage of a $3.3-billion foreign aid bill as a victory for American foreign policy and the American people.

Final House action on the measure came late Wednesday after Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La., was defeated in his efforts to make further cuts in the total which already had been reduced $200 million from Johnson's original "barebones" request for $3.5 billion. The reduction was the smallest since the Korean War.

Johnson promptly issued a statement saying the House action was "in line with the best interests of America and the best interests of the Free World."

"I congratulate the members who backed a measure which was realistically and honestly conceived. This is an important victory for American foreign policy and that means for every American citizen."

Passage came on a 231-174 roll call vote, with 176 Democrats and 55 Republicans voting in favor of the measure. Opposed were 63 Democrats and 111 Republicans.

The appropriations measure which provides the foreign aid money was then sent to the Senate, where the Foreign Relations Committee is working on the President's foreign aid authorization request. This first step merely sets the ceiling on foreign aid spending. Action on the authorization will follow.

Flagman Aids Injured

City Man Escapes Injury When Train Crash Kills 3

A city man escaped injury in a collision of two trains which claimed the lives of three others at Pittsburgh early this morning.

Carl G. Gray, 1902 Michigan Ave., East End, was the flagman on a halted Pennsylvania Railroad freight train that was rammed in the rear about 4:30 a. m. in the west end of Pittsburgh. He pulled an injured man from the wreckage.

Gray made an effort to flag down the oncoming freight, but it was too late.

The three dead men were trapped in the cab of the moving freight. They were R. J. Cook of Carnegie, Pa., the fireman, who was freed from the wreckage about three hours after the crash; C. M. Blundo of Columbus, the engineer, and E. A. Smith of Newark, a brakeman. They were pronounced dead in the wreckage about four and a half hours later.

A working companion of Gray, Theodore H. Nally, 40, of Steubenville, was injured in the crash. Nally is a conductor.

The caboose and six boxcars of the halted train were derailed. One of the boxcars landed atop the derailed engine of the second train.

Gray was in the caboose when he heard the other train approaching. He jumped from the caboose and began flagging down the train.

Gray told a railroad spokesman he heard the engineer apply the emergency brakes, but it was too late.

Nally did not get out before the crash and was pulled through a cock loft window by Gray.

Nally was reported in "good" condition in a Pittsburgh hospital.

William Baird of Pittsburgh, public relations officer for the railroad, said the halted train had been having trouble with the telephone signal system in the engine of the cab.

The engineer had halted in Pittsburgh to report the difficulty. The other freight had been following from the Weirton area.

The halted train, consisting of 56 cars, was en route from Mingo Junction to Conway. The other train, made up of 39 cars, was enroute from Columbus to nearby Pitcairn.

Baird said the moving freight rounded a curve and rammed the rear of the other before the engineer could bring it to a halt.

Mrs. Gray said she heard from her husband about 9:30 a. m. He telephoned from Conway to inform her he was unhurt.

She said he left for work last night at 8:30 and boarded the train at Mingo Junction. Gray and Nally work together all the time, she said.

29 Killed By Reds In Viet Attack

Convoy Destroyed; 104 Of Viet Cong Slain In Mopup

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong guerrillas ambushed and destroyed an army convoy in the jungles of the central highlands Wednesday, killing 29 government troops.

But the Vietnamese Defense Ministry also reported today that government forces killed 104 guerrillas in a mopup operation a few miles north of the ambush.

The nine-truck convoy was hit along Route 19, where a whole French mobile brigade was wiped out in 1954.

The convoy was making its way with military supplies from the coastal city of Qui Nhon, 250 miles north of Saigon, to Pleiku in the interior.

The Viet Cong smashed the trucks with mines, then overran them. They gathered up a machine gun and 30 individual weapons before melting into the jungle.

The Defense Ministry said many government troops were wounded and five were missing. It said the Viet Cong lost three men.

In the operation in Kontum Province, 25 miles north of Pleiku, government troops found 59 Viet Cong bodies and captured considerable supplies of Communist weapons, the Defense Ministry said. The operation had been going on for some time and ended Wednesday.

A terrorist lobbed an explosive device in Saigon today, slightly injuring two American servicemen and a Chinese passer-by.

The incident occurred on a sidewalk near a U.S. officers' billet at 7 a. m. An American spokesman said one of the soldiers was hit by fragments and the other hurt his leg when he dropped to the ground to avoid the blast.

The U.S. combat toll rose to 149 dead Wednesday when a Viet Cong sniper killed the pilot of a medical evacuation helicopter in the Mekong River delta 53 miles southwest of Saigon. The helicopter had picked up a wounded American and was taking off.

Three other Americans on board were injured when the helicopter veered out of control and overturned. The wounded man and the three helicopter crewmen were taken to Saigon by another helicopter.

First Of Kind By Labor Board

NLRB Finds Union Guilty Of Racial Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Breaking historic ground, the National Labor Relations Board found a union guilty of racial discrimination today and stripped it of its certification.

In a broad opinion with possible national impact the majority decision said whenever a union causes discrimination based on race it has committed an unfair labor practice.

The action—the first of its kind by the NLRB—was against the Independent Metal Workers Union, which maintained separate locals for white and Negro members at Hughes Tool Co. in Houston, Tex.

The case involved the complaint of a member of the Negro local whose application for an apprenticeship available only to white members was rejected by the union.

The five-member board's decision to revoke certification on grounds of illegal coercion was unanimous, although two members gave more limited reasons for their finding.

The minority said Congress never intended the National Labor Relations Act to deal with racial discrimination except when based on union membership, as in this case.

The majority opinion was by members Boyd Leedom, Gerald A. Brown and Howard Jenkins Jr. Chairman Frank W. McCulloch and member John H. Fanning wrote the minority view.

The majority said the union's refusal to process the grievance of the Negro member, Ivory Davis, because of his race amounted to refusal to bargain collectively with the employer.

The revocation of the union's official certification means that another union may petition for certification at the plant.

It tightens provisions contained in the first civil rights law passed this century — in 1957 — aimed at protecting Negro voting rights.

It also creates a community relations service designed to provide machinery for voluntary settlement of racial disputes through mediation and conciliation. And it extends for four years the life of the Civil Rights Commission, with added powers.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five justices of Pennsylvania's Supreme Court, aware that their decision will determine the Democratic nominee for U.S. senator, are pondering the legality of 6,000 contested April primary votes cast on the wrong line of Philadelphia voting machines.

The state's highest tribunal heard the appeal Wednesday brought by attorneys for Justice Michael A. Musmanno. They seek to reverse the Philadelphia election board which ruled the ballots were invalid because they were cast in the wrong place.

After 90 minutes of oral argument by opposing counsel the court took the case under advisement. There was no indication when a decision would be rendered, though some observers anticipated a ruling before the July 4th holiday.

President's Signature Due Quickly

Hope Being Held It Will Start Easing Racial Tensions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long congressional fight over civil rights legislation comes to an end today as the House votes on the far-reaching measure already passed by the Senate.

Overwhelming approval is a foregone conclusion, the House having passed last February, 290 to 130, a bill that was revised in only minor ways by the Senate during its historic three-month debate.

Without waiting until July 4th as some sources had indicated, President Johnson is expected to sign the bill into law speedily in hopes it can start easing racial tensions. Many of its Southern critics, however, predict it will only inflame the situation.

For more than a year the bill was the subject of intensive negotiating in both the House and Senate before it finally emerged as a compromise package supported by Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress.

The bill wraps into one big bundle a number of measures designed to help Negroes achieve equality in nearly all phases of national life into which the federal government can reach.

It bars discrimination in employment practices—by both unions and employers—and in hotels, motels, restaurants, movies, and other places serving the public. It arms the government with powers to cut off federal funds for programs in which discrimination occurs.

It also grants new powers to the attorney general to speed desegregation of public schools and other public facilities, such as parks, playgrounds and libraries.

It tightens provisions contained in the first civil rights law passed this century — in 1957 — aimed at protecting Negro voting rights.

It also creates a community relations service designed to provide machinery for voluntary settlement of racial disputes through mediation and conciliation. And it extends for four years the life of the Civil Rights Commission, with added powers.

Form Mailed For Tax Data

Melvin J. Burton, director of the district Internal Revenue office in Cleveland, said today forms have been mailed to employers throughout the area for quarterly federal tax returns, listing income taxes and Social Security payments withheld for the quarter ending June 30.

Burton pointed out that the forms, which also carry the correct employer identification number, will insure the prompt and proper credit to taxpayer accounts when the returns are processed through the automatic data processing system at Cincinnati.

Burton said blank forms are available in the district office for new filers. Employers without identification numbers should attach Application Form SS-4 to the return for a number when filing, Burton said.

Burton said that manufacturers, retailers, and other taxpayers required to file quarterly federal excise tax returns will receive pre-addressed Forms 720 through the mail.

This represents the initial mailing of these blank pre-addressed forms from the Cincinnati service center.

Sebastian, will direct his Monaca Cornet Band in a concert following the variety show.

One of the evening highlights which Tri-State spectators have come to anticipate is the drum and bugle corps competition, which is held at the high school stadium. This year, the Westmoreland Esquires, the Meadville Thunderbirds, the Sharpsburg Cadets and two other national corps will vie for trophies and prizes under rules of the All-American Drum and Bugle Corps Association.

The Pittsburgh Rockets drum and bugle corps again will give an exhibition. Winners of the parade float prizes will be announced during the evening at the stadium.

AERIAL fireworks, to be set off by the Zambelli Fireworks Manufacturing Co., Inc., of New Castle, are expected to be better than those of past year and of course will conclude with the traditional booming finale. Spectators are urged to view them from the stadium. There will be less room at Crucible Field this year for fireworks watchers because Midland firemen are holding a carnival there.

Another favorite of visitors, the street dance at 7th St. playground, will feature music by Vinnie Vincent.

The committee expects to wind up this week its fund drive which finances the day's entertainment. The committee expressed appreciation to Local 1212, United Steelworkers of America, and the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co., which each donated $1,500 to the fund drive and Midland Borough Council, which donated $500.

A SUBSTANTIAL part of the funds were also raised through contributions of mill employees, businesses and organizations. Units expected in the morning parade — which is a half hour later than last year's — will include: High school bands of Midland, Beaver Falls, Monaca, Beaver Local, Ambridge, East Liverpool, Western Beaver, New Brighton, South Side and Northwestern.

The drum and bugle corps will include those scheduled for the evening competition and exhibition; the professional bands of the Patterson Township firemen, the Monaca Cornet Band and the Louis Krepps Band of Beaver.

Special marching groups will be the Butler Catholic Daughters of America and the East Liverpool Shrine Band.

Senior float entries will include the Midland Area Chamber of Commerce, The Episcures, Rotary Club, NAACP branch, American Legion Post 481, Lions Club and Knights of Columbus Council 2005, all of Midland.

YOUTH FLOAT entries will include Midland Rainbow Girls, a stagecoach float of South Side Junior High and Midland Majorettes.

been held in the city for years, but Midland's big July 4th celebration fills the void. A parade will be held in the forenoon as the highlight of the day - long celebration. A parade and fireworks also are planned at Weirton.

The Ohio forecaster said weekend temperatures will be average for this time of year and they may fall as much as 3 degrees below the normal range.

He made the prediction as part of a five-day forecast that said the weather will become cooler and less humid by late Friday. He made no mention of rain that would mar the holiday.

Extra personnel has been added to bolster the regular staff for the holiday weekend at Tomlinson Run State Park, near Pughtown. Some 10,000 to 11,000 persons are expected to use the facilities Saturday and Sunday, according to N. T. Holbrook, superintendent.

An extra patrolman will be utilized to regulate the flow of traffic. Additional life guards will be on duty at the park pool for the entire period and three extra basket attendants will be used to keep track of the clothing of swimmers.

All picnic facilities at the park are on a "first come, first served" basis. None can be reserved. Holbrook said several family reunions are to be held at the park over the weekend.

Some 1,200 to 1,400 swimmers and approximately 3,000 picnickers are anticipated at Thompson Park over the weekend, according to Joe Walters, superintendent.

Four life guards will be on duty at the pool the entire weekend. All the pavilions have been reserved for Saturday. If any of the tables in the pavilions are not utilized, they will be moved out into the park to accommodate more people, he said.

There is a possibility that some benches may be set up along the Ohio River shore for residents to watch boating. This is an extended program of the Park Board.

Ethics Remain In Question

Eight months ago, when the Senate undertook an investigation of the business affairs of high-living majority secretary Robert G. Baker, there was reason to hope for a stringent law requiring senators and their aides to report outside financial interests and earnings.

That hope has faltered steadily during the tightly guarded Baker probe and appeared to be dead this week as the Senate Rules Committee rejected a proposal with teeth in it only to support a half-way measure that ignores income and capital gains reporting.

ALTHOUGH a little progress might be called better than none, the Rules Committee's failure to go all the way with a full disclosure bill is a disappointingly tiny step toward raising the Senate's ethical standards.

If enacted, the legislation would require only that Senate members and employees disclose annually to the secretary of the Senate all outside interests operated for profit. It would be applicable only to employees whose Senate salaries exceed $10,000 and whose outside holdings exceed $5,000.

It's chief drawbacks are that it does not require any disclosure of the amount of these outside earnings and carries no enforcement features.

DISAPPOINTING as it is, the resolution approved by the committee probably is the only one that stands a chance of adoption. While senators and congressmen are willing to impose restrictions on the executive branch and, to some degree, on their own employees, they are notoriously touchy about applying them to themselves.

This is unfortunate, because if the Senate ever needed to show the public it is willing to abide by high ethical standards it is now in the wake of the Baker case.

The only way the Senate can place its ethics above question now is to pursue diligently the conflicting evidence in the Baker case so that a full and truthful public disclosure can be made.

Curfew Time

St. Clair Township has found it necessary to enforce a curfew law for juveniles because of various offenses that have plagued the area — violation of traffic regulations and breaking into homes among them.

You can be sure the township authorities have acted only as a last resort and in the best interests of all for they are as aware as the next person that the innocent suffer along with the guilty under such an order.

St. Clair Township is not the first community that has deemed it advisable to take such drastic action in an effort to curb juvenile disregard of the law.

It's unfortunate that a curfew must be clamped on, but it's one of the most forceful ways to impress on youngsters that they must pay the price for thoughtless escapades that go beyond the bounds of just having a good time.

Long Way To The Moon

That Lt. Col. John H. Glenn's prolonged attacks of dizziness following his fall in a bathroom last February could be related to his experiences as an astronaut is a very real possibility, according to Dr. Bernard M. Wagner, chairman of the pathology department of the New York Medical College.

The New York doctor further believes there could be some relationship between Col. Glenn's inner ear condition and that of his fellow astronaut, Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr., and the Soviet cosmonaut, Maj. Gherman Titov.

Dr. Wagner expressed his belief after briefing the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics on the results of a week-long trip to the Soviet Union during which he conferred with leading Soviet space biologists and physicians and found them supporting his viewpoint.

While the National Aeronautics and Space Administration doctors hold to the belief Glenn's condition is in no way connected with his space flight, Dr. Wagner supports his theory with the studies and findings of the Soviet experts.

THE NEW YORK doctor reported that Soviet scientists now are convinced that some sort of artificial gravity will be necessary for astronauts taking prolonged space flights. They are thinking of equipping their new Vostok spaceships with centrifuge on which the cosmonauts would spin periodically at a force one-third that of the earth's gravitational pull.

This exercise is designed to keep the heart and blood circulation systems in shape for activity after returning to earth. Both American and Soviet astronauts have suffered drops in blood pressure after returning from long space flights. He said the Soviets are preparing for another flight before the end of the year.

Dr. Wagner also revealed that the Soviets have decided not to send any more women into space because they are not satisfied with the performance of Valentina Tereshkova, the first woman in space. The Soviet doctors found she was too excited in space as reflected by wide variations in her pulse rate and that she did not recover from the effects as quickly as the male cosmonauts.

The question of inner ear disturbances, Dr. Wagner said, still is one of the big unknowns in manned space flight.

RECENT EXPERIMENTS with chimpanzees have shown that extreme acceleration - deceleration forces, such as those astronauts undergo in flight and during training, cause hemorrhages in the small blood vessels of the ear.

These hemorrhages could lead to formation of small scars on either the hearing mechanism or the semi-circular canals which could lead eventually to impairment of hearing or balance.

Although Col. Glenn's doctor says the astronaut is making "considerable progress" and now spends most of his time out of bed, sudden changes in direction and rides over bumpy roads still make the colonel dizzy, the doctor reports.

If Dr. Wagner and the Soviet scientists are correct in their assumptions, medical science still has a long way to go before man conquers space and lands on the moon.

Check Again

A one-man crusade being carried on by a Missouri man against abandoned refrigerators offers a reminder that Tri-State residents can do their part in helping eliminate the potential child killers.

Every now and then the news services bring the tragic news of some youngster being trapped and suffocating in one of the discarded iceboxes.

It's a comparatively simple matter to make the refrigerators safe by removing the doors or the latches. If you don't want to tackle the job yourself, call the police or some other law enforcement agency and inform them of the potential death trap.

Alertness on the part of each of us could be the means of saving a child's life.

Another native gift I have is my voice. I can't carry a tune any longer than a bank carries a deadbeat. You know the old saying, "Nothing worthwhile ever comes easily." My singing voice can be made to sound so terrible it is a wonderful incentive to make me work to perfect it as terrible to a point where it sounds as a folk-singer. My larynx also has blisters, but they are changing to calluses, too.

A NICE SMILE is practically a necessity in this type of entertainment. I have been strengthening my smiling muscles while snapping my fingers. However, I do not smile 10 hours a day because blisters or calluses on smiling muscles are looked at askance.

A good head of hair is another item in the folk-singing repertoire, as you probably have observed. This could be the one thing that nips my budding career.

A wig or hairpiece might serve as an extreme last resort but is not even being considered now, because I still have hope of growing hair on the top of my head the way it grows on the back of my neck.

Anything is possible, you know, if you want it enough and this is my strategy to get bushy-haired for the waiting, cheering crowds.

Keep me posted if you hear anything. Faithfully yours,

By DAVID LAWRENCE
"Impulsive" seems to have become a popular word in the political vocabulary of the hour. Maybe it will even provide an issue in the campaign.

Gov. Scranton of Pennsylvania uses the word in describing Senator Goldwater's alleged lack of qualification for the presidency. Henry Cabot Lodge, just returned from serving as ambassador to Viet Nam in order to campaign for the Pennsylvania governor, promptly adopts the word as applying to the Arizona senator. So perhaps it is timely to make an exhaustive analysis, if not a "sophisticated" study, of just what the word means historically as well as in the field of political debate.

It was just a short span of years ago, in the summer of 1950, that an important decision confronted a Democratic president, Harry Truman. The Communist armies had crossed the 38th Parallel from North Korea to invade the territory of South Korea. Within 48 hours after the Communist invasion, the President—without waiting for the U. N. to organize an international army and without asking Congress to authorize the employment of our military forces — had ordered U. S. sea and air forces into action against the invaders. Was this "impulsive"?

IT WAS under a Republican president, Dwight Eisenhower, in the autumn of 1957, that trouble developed in Little Rock, Ark., where a federal court had ordered a public school to desegregate. The state's National Guard, sent by the governor to preserve order at the high school, was withdrawn on orders from the court, and there was some disorder near the school as the Negro students entered.

In the course of a few hours that evening advisers around the President became panicky and urged that federal troops be ordered to the scene. He agreed and issued a proclamation threatening the use of federal forces. They took charge the next morning even though the violence had subsided and before the local populace or police had been given an opportunity to show compliance with the warning proclamation. Was this "impulsive"?

It was under another Democratic president, John F. Kennedy, in April 1961, that Cuban exiles undertook an invasion of their homeland. The United States government had worked with the exiled Cubans for several months to plan and implement the operation and to give clandestine help. Air support was expected as a natural military maneuver essential to the success of the project.

AMERICAN naval forces were standing by when the Cuban exiles landed at the Bay of Pigs but the President's advisers—including Adlai Stevenson, American ambassador to the United Nations — had persuaded Mr. Kennedy to cancel an airstrike by the Cuban exiles designed to knock out Castro's air force, and to forbid U. S. planes to be used at any time, since this might create an unfavorable impression in the United Nations.

It's reported that Mr. Kennedy later changed his mind again and told the Cubans they could make the airstrike and also agreed to allow U. S. planes to provide desperately needed air cover, but it was all too late.

The expedition failed, and thus the United States lost an opportunity to get rid of the Castro problem. Can a president's action in suddenly overriding his military advisers be called "impulsive"?

GOV. SCRANTON, a few weeks ago, had a long talk with former President Eisenhower at Gettysburg, and the impression was given that the governor was making himself available for the nomination. The next day, however, on a television appearance, he said things which indicated that he was not in the race for the presidential nomination.

Was this "impulsive," or does the word better describe the action of Mr. Scranton five days later in reversing himself and becoming an active candidate?

Former Ambassador Lodge said this week that a president must not only refrain from "impulsiveness," but must be "prudent." There comes to mind the action of Sen. Goldwater who had for several months known that an emotional wave of public opinion was pushing the "civil rights" bill to passage by Congress. Mr. Goldwater carefully studied past decisions of the Supreme Court and concluded that the measure as drawn was a violation of the Constitution, which, as a senator, he has taken an oath to support. So he decided to vote against the bill.

Certainly it cannot be charged that Mr. Goldwater was "impulsive" but may it be said that he was "imprudent" by his vote?

The answer isn't immediately available, as the political dictionary for the year has not gone to press as yet. What is politically "prudent" in 1964 will not be established until after the presidential election has taken place in November.

Strategy Unveiled For Work Week Change

By VICTOR RIESEL

Frequently the fury and oratorical dust of national elections obscure events which signals as much change in the routine of our lives as could be wrought by the selection of any president.

Such an event went unnoticed on the New York luxury line piers the other day when a militant, modern, white collar union demanded a four-day week during its contract negotiations with the French Line. It was a serious demand, the first of its kind in the nation.

If this union, the Office Employees International, led by 49-year-old Howard Coughlin, had persisted, it would have won its bid for a dramatic revamping of the work week. However, Mr. Coughlin, an instinctive strategist, and his colleagues decided to withdraw their request and save it for a more dramatic moment in a more traumatic area—Wall Street.

COUGHLIN'S UNION, made up of the younger, more energetic "new" generation of wage earners, plans an imaginative organizing campaign among Wall Street's 40,000 to 50,000 men and women who are employed by the financial district's banks and brokerage houses. The kick-off will come shortly after Labor Day.

The union gave the "Street" a trial run last winter and signed up more than a thousand white collar people. Coughlin and his colleagues put a jazz orchestra on the steps of the Sub-Treasury Building, called on their theatrical sister-unions to provide some entertainment and gave out with its unionizing propaganda.

So well did this go that they decided to regroup and unleash the full drive late in 1964. They are not new to Wall Street, for they already have signed up some of the big financial and produce exchanges.

One of the union's gambits will be the promise of a fight for a four-day week. Coughlin says this may not run into as much resistance among the employers as might be expected since the proposal is not for an ordinary four-day week. He says he tried it for size in a speech before the American Management Association, where it received more contemplation than irritation from his listeners.

WHAT FASCINATED the management people was Coughlin's proposal that Saturday be considered a normal working day—not at time-and-a-half or double time but at regular rates. What intrigued them was the suggestion that there were labor leaders who would even consider a contract which would permit a working staff to come in on Saturday.

Here is how Coughlin sees the four-day week proposal: Sunday would be eliminated, of course. This would leave a six-day week. Some staffers would work Monday through Thursday, some Tuesday through Friday, some Wednesday through Saturday.

The office union president points out that many corporations now would like their headquarters operating on Saturday, but the time-and-a-half pay makes the cost either prohibitive or uneconomical.

The firms—such as banks, shipping companies, construction concerns, etc.—might find it would cost them no more to run a four-day week, including Saturday, than to run a five-day week, excluding Saturday.

But, like nearly everything else in prosperous post-war Japan, "dekasegi" has changed with the times. Farmers now leave the farm to hire out as construction hands in the nearest city, some journeying to Tokyo to take advantage of the Olympics boom.

And this has created fear in government circles that agriculture will suffer.

As it is now, Japan must import 18 per cent of its foodstuffs and pay for them in hard-to-come-by cash. If the 37.5 per cent of the Japanese who farm the land pursue "dekasegi" too assiduously, crop output is sure to suffer, the officials believe.

The rice-basket area of Tohoku, north of Tokyo, is in the grip of the "work away from home" fad. It's also the area witnessing the greatest permanent exodus from farm life. Farm workers in the key 15- to 25-year-old age bracket are rushing to "opportunity" in city factories.

This is happening despite the fact that big crops, high prices for rice, and the blessing of a government anxious to keep farmers happy have given the rural districts prosperity they have never known in the past.

Under these conditions, the farmers could easily afford to loaf through unproductive winter months. But prosperity has Many office workers already have the 35-hour week.

At the same time that the Office Employees Union bids for the support of Wall Street's thousands with this four-day plan, Coughlin will be pressing it on the big shipping companies which operate luxury liners such as the S.S. Constitution.

HE BELIEVES this area will be the break-through front in a year or so when the contract negotiations swing around again. Once the union cracks this group, it will move on to the other firms whose white collar workers are its members. This will be a most significant step.

This union has contracts with such companies as Vordens, Remington Rand, the Fort Worth division of General Dynamics, where the TFX aircraft is being made.

It reaches into the Sandia Corp.'s atomic energy installations in Albuquerque, the Nevada Mercury test site, the Texas Co. in Port Arthur, Texas, as well as the atomic sub yards of the Electric Boat Co. in Groton, Conn.

It has members in the offices of New Mexico copper mining firms, as well as the Stock Exchange. This is a wide front.

It puts the union's members in close contact with Machinists, Auto Workers, Steel Workers, Longshoremen, Teamsters, Seafarers, Construction and Electronics Workers — and thus across virtually the entire spectrum of organized labor. Though the Office Employees union is comparatively small, its leader, Coughlin, is well respected by labor's national high command and is destined for a place on the AFL-CIO Executive Council.

If he wins the new type four-day week for his people, mark my words, it will become the signal for scores of other major unions. The big headlines are still a long way off. But the big story has started.

Japan's Farm Exodus

By Stuart Griffin

TOKYO
Japan's growing farmland prosperity owes much to the traditional custom of "dekasegi," which in rough translation means "working away from home."

The phrase once referred to such extra-income jobs for farmers as straw-processing, paper bag-making, charcoal manufacture and the whittling of wooden toys. The work was done in the home area, and the output was sold at local fairs or shipped to the city.

But, like nearly everything else in prosperous post-war Japan, "dekasegi" has changed with the times. Farmers now leave the farm to hire out as construction hands in the nearest city, some journeying to Tokyo to take advantage of the Olympics boom.

And this has created fear in government circles that agriculture will suffer.

As it is now, Japan must import 18 per cent of its foodstuffs and pay for them in hard-to-come-by cash. If the 37.5 per cent of the Japanese who farm the land pursue "dekasegi" too assiduously, crop output is sure to suffer, the officials believe.

The rice-basket area of Tohoku, north of Tokyo, is in the grip of the "work away from home" fad. It's also the area witnessing the greatest permanent exodus from farm life. Farm workers in the key 15- to 25-year-old age bracket are rushing to "opportunity" in city factories.

This is happening despite the fact that big crops, high prices for rice, and the blessing of a government anxious to keep farmers happy have given the rural districts prosperity they have never known in the past.

Under these conditions, the farmers could easily afford to loaf through unproductive winter months. But prosperity has created its own fever, and "dekasegi" is growing more popular daily.

The population of Tohoku towns and villages drops up to 60 per cent each fall, when the fall rush to big city jobs begins.

Some of the farmers use the "city money" to improve their farms and to buy machinery, insecticides, tractors, and the like. Thus they plow back their earnings to make life easier down on the farm.

But a constantly growing number of their fellows never return to the rural areas. They remain in the cities, hugging their new-found pots of gold.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, July 2, the 184th day of 1964. There are 182 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1881, President James Garfield was shot by Charles Guiteau, a disappointed Chicago office seeker, in the Washington railroad station. Garfield lost his fight for life Sept. 19.

On this date:

In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed the Morrill Act, giving the states 13 million acres of land in the public domain to establish land-grant colleges.

In 1890, the Sherman Anti-Trust Act was passed.

In 1942, British 8th Army units stopped the German Afrika Korps drive at El Alamein.

Ten years ago — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer appealed to the West to give his government full sovereignty.

Five years ago — Pope John XXIII issued his first encyclical, calling for world peace and unity.

One year ago — President John F. Kennedy called upon Pope Paul VI in the Vatican.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By George Lichty

"... Two weeks at this de luxe resort with plenty of golf, swimming and fine food put us in great shape! ... Not an ounce of superfluous cash on us!"

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

Folk-singing is such a big business these days I wondered whether you had thought about trying to cash in on it.

Nowadays anyone with a couple of strings on a cigar box is bucking for a gold record.

It calls to mind get-rich schemes of a few years back, like guinea pigs, white mice and rabbits to be sold to laboratories and hospitals; growing ginseng for its "medicinal" value; raising mink and chinchilla in the basement for their fur, or raising photogenic children like Jackie Cooper or Shirley Temple and making umpteen million dollars.

What started me off on this is that someone found a veritable gold mine in our attic in the form of an old banjo. This banjo is obviously of antebellum vintage, but just which bellum it is ante is unknown. It could be the banjo that Eddie Peabody learned on.

The important thing is that possession of this banjo gives us the first ingredient necessary for a folk-singer. A workman should not quarrel with his tools. He has to make do with what he has. So we are over the first hurdle toward the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

BEFORE YOU THINK I may be dogging it and waiting for the money to roll in, I hasten to tell you I am really applying myself trying to learn the folk-singing trade. I practice 10 hours a day snapping my fingers. First, there were just blisters, but the necessary calluses are beginning to form.

Certain natural-born accomplishments are always advantageous in any given field, and this is where my unsteady hand is going to pay off. My hit-or-miss plucking of the banjo strings will produce arrangements out of this world.

Peace, Not War

U.S. Policy In Asia, Rusk Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Publicly and in private, Johnson administration officials have been talking lately of a readiness to "risk war" to keep the Communists from overrunning South Viet Nam and Laos.

Wednesday, Secretary of State Dean Rusk sought to balance this with some peace talk.

"Peace ought to be possible in Southeast Asia without any extension of the fighting," he said. "The first objective of our policy and our desire in Southeast Asia is to exploit that possibility."

Why the change? Administration sources said an entirely erroneous impression had been created in some quarters that the United States is "hell-bent for war."

At his news conference Rusk said that although President Johnson had declared Sunday that while a nation "must be prepared to risk war" to preserve its freedom, the President's main theme was his "quest for peace."

To Test Goldwater Strength

Scranton Backers Seen Charting Platform Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton's backers appeared today to be laying the groundwork for a GOP convention platform fight to test the solidity of Sen. Barry Goldwater's presidential delegate strength.

Although no final decision is reported to have been made on such a maneuver, Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., already has canvassed platform views of a group of liberal Republican House members of the convention committee.

And Henry Cabot Lodge has tossed off some hints that a platform fight might provide the basis for the kind of test on which Scranton's backers may have to rely in their efforts to shake loose some of the convention votes now publicly committed to Goldwater for the nomination.

If any such battle is carried to the convention floor, Michigan Gov. George Romney is regarded as certain to align himself with Scranton's supporters. Romney, whose state casts 48 votes, has said he will not release those pledged to him on the first ballot.

Most Republican leaders think that only a statement on civil rights that went far beyond approval of the bill Congress is about to pass and pledges to enforce it could stir up a major convention controversy.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., who heads the platform committee, has said that its provisions should be fought out within his group. But dissidents could bring a minority report to the floor if they choose.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who will place Goldwater's name in nomination, predicted in an interview that if such a minority report materializes it will get short shrift in the convention.

He said he doesn't believe anything the Scranton forces can do will keep Goldwater from getting the nomination.

"This thing has gone too far," he said. "Barry Goldwater has won his spurs in the party. He was the one who went out in fair weather and foul to help rebuild it and the party won't forget that."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mike Mansfield, Senate Democratic leader, said Wednesday it may be possible for Congress to complete all its major legislation and adjourn prior to the opening of the Democratic National Convention Aug. 24.

Earlier, Mansfield had said Congress probably would have to come back after the Democratic session.

Inmate, 23, Recaptured; Hostage OK

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. Va. — A prisoner who escaped two days ago while awaiting mental examination before trial on a rape charge was recaptured today with a radio announcer he had forced to drive him here from the Weston area.

William Barker, 23, was caught about 2:15 a. m. during a gasoline stop at a New Martinsville filling station. He was in a car owned and driven by David Weber, 28, an announcer for radio station WHAW in Weston. Weber was not harmed.

Police said Barker, using a rifle taken from Weber's home, forced Weber to drive him here after holding the Weber family prisoner in their home nearly five hours.

Filing stations here had been alerted with a description of Weber's car. The attendant at the station where the car stopped called police after Weber identified himself when he sought to pay by check.

City Patrolmen Henry Lallathin and Carl Koehner arrived while the car was still in the station. They said Barker gave no resistance, although he still had Weber's rifle.

"He gave up as soon as he saw us," Lallathin said. State Police returned Barker to Weston, about 85 miles from here, and he was placed in the Lewis County jail about 5 a. m.

Toll Climbs To 89 In Philippine Storm

MANILA (AP)—Reports from outlying provinces pushed the Philippine death count from Typhoon Winnie to 89 today and indicated nearly half a million persons were left homeless.

Authorities feared an epidemic might break out in Manila, half of whose 2 million residents have been without electricity or water for the past three days.

Broken power lines idled many pumps, but the electric company said full power should be restored by Friday.

Police estimated damage in the Manila area at $10 million, and the figure was expected to rise.

Hopping With Paper BIRMINGHAM, Ala.

Police in Birmingham have a unique method of determining whether tavern owners are keeping enough light in their pubs. The City Code says that drinking places must be light enough so that a newspaper can be read at any seat in the joint.

Man Accused On Coin Theft

Arraigned for the theft of $108 in coins from his brother's home, a Pleasant Heights man was granted a continuance today until Tuesday when he appeared before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

Judge Chertoff set bond at $1,000 for Calvin E. Cramer, 876 Baxter St., whom police said had admitted the theft of the coins June 16 from the home of his brother, Floyd Cramer, 1080 Mapletree St.

Police Capt. R. H. Pyle said Calvin Cramer admitted the theft following a lengthy interrogation by the acting chief and Patrolman Kenneth Moon. He had been taken into custody Monday, Capt. Pyle said.

Police said the break in the case came when Patrolman L. E. Richard stopped in a store to transact some private business and the owner mentioned having the old coins.

He notified headquarters and Capt. Pyle brought in four coins and the East End man positively identified them as coming from his collection. Capt. Pyle said the coins had been turned in at the store by an unidentified party and not by the defendant.

The initial police report on the burglary showed that Floyd Cramer reported the coins had been taken from a fishing tackle box in a dining room cupboard.

The collection included $60 in "Mercury" dimes; $30 worth of old pennies; five Korean coins valued at $15; two "very old" silver dollars and two new Kennedy half-dollars. Cramer estimated the value at $400.

Hunt Pushed For Clues To Missing Trio

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi's biggest manhunt searched today for any clue to the baffling disappearance of three civil rights workers.

No hint of the fate of the trio has been uncovered by hundreds of men in a thorough manhunt through east-central Mississippi since the men vanished on the night of June 21.

Art Richardson, public information officer for the State Highway patrol, said every lead was being pursued until investigators were satisfied with the information obtained.

Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 20, both of New York, and James Chaney, 22, a Meridian Negro, were last seen when they posted a $20 bond in Philadelphia after their arrest for speeding.

Sheriff Lawrence Rainey of Neshoba County said Wednesday that Deputy Cecil Price had told him that he had not actually followed the trio when they left the jail.

Previously, Price had said he escorted the trio to the city limits.

The sheriff quoted Price as saying that he saw the station wagon drive away, but instead of following it he answered a city police call to check a report on drag racing.

The charred hulk of the station wagon was found June 23 about 12 miles from Philadelphia.

St. Augustine Businessmen Would Abide By Rights Bill

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—The city's top businessmen say they will abide by the civil rights bill if it is signed into law.

They said Wednesday they did not like the public accommodations section, which would force them to serve Negroes, but wanted to restore racial harmony to the city.

"We're not capitulating to anybody," said James Brock, acting as spokesman for the businessmen. "We had no choice. We want to do everything we can to get our community back to normal, with harmonious relations between races."

Gov. Farris Bryant, who named Tuesday a biracial committee that prompted a truce in the demonstrations that have rocked the city for a month, said he was pulling out a considerable part of the State Police force. He didn't give a figure.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., whose Southern Christian Leadership Conference sponsored the integration push, said no more mass demonstrations are planned in St. Augustine unless the biracial committee fails.

Woman Gets Leniency For Auto Charges

An Oakmont woman was given two suspended 10-day jail terms today in Municipal Court when arraigned before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on five traffic charges filed against her within three days.

Mrs. Elnora Jones received the suspended sentences on two charges of driving without an operator's license on the condition she dispose of her auto and stop driving a car until she obtains a license.

Mrs. Jones also was fined $10 and costs on one charge of illegal registration and ordered to pay the costs on a second charge.

Judge Chertoff continued sentencing on a charge of failing to obtain an Ohio certificate of title for a car purchased in Pennsylvania until Wednesday to make certain she sells her car.

Mrs. Jones' counsel, Atty. William S. Foulks, entered a plea in mitigation, citing a nervous condition for which the woman has been treated.

Two charges were filed against Mrs. Jones Sunday night. Early Tuesday morning she was arrested again on three other charges.

Robert E. Wentworth of Glenmoor was fined $5 and costs on a charge of making an illegal turn at E. 5th and Washington Sts. at 5:59 p. m. Wednesday.

"I can't tell a lie," Wentworth responded when asked how he pleaded. "I won't lie either," Judge Chertoff answered in handing down the fine.

William Paul Dyda, 14 Midland Ave., Midland, was fined $10 and costs after being convicted of speeding 65 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone June 24 on the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd. He had pleaded not guilty Monday and his case had been continued today to permit the appearance of the State Highway Patrol officer.

Makarios Hits U.S. Help In Cyprus Issue

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—President Makarios opposes the participation of an American adviser in the United Nations effort to mediate the Cyprus dispute. Makarios said Wednesday the appointment of an American to help U.N. mediator Sakari Tuomioja would "include the danger of involvement of the issue in other circles outside the United Nations." He apparently meant the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The United States still fears a war between NATO members Greece and Turkey over Cyprus. It offered U.N. Secretary-General U Thant the services of a distinguished American—some informants said former Secretary of State Dean Acheson—to help the mediation effort.

Tuomioja has been unable to bring the two sides together. Greek Cypriot newspapers warned that an American adviser would involve NATO.

Makarios also said Wednesday he would not attend the Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London next week.

Contracts Let At Wellsville

The Wellsville Board of Control today announced the award of contracts for the annual supply of chemicals for the water filtration plant and for gasoline and coal.

The Gitschier Service Station of Wellsville, the lone bidder, was given a contract for providing gasoline for city vehicles at a cost of 23.7-cents per gallon for regular and 26.7 cents per gallon for high test.

The Quality Feed Co. of Wellsville was awarded a contract for providing coal at $9.50 per ton for local fuel and $11 per ton for Pittsburgh coal. The firm also will provide lime at a cost of $21.40 per ton delivered.

The alum will be provided by the Olin Chemical Division of New York at a cost of $50.35 delivered.

The bids were opened about a month ago. The board, consisting of Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare, Mayor William Daugherty and Auditor Edgar S. Davidson, clerk, took the bids under advisement.

The board received bids on new police cruisers but announced this morning it will ask City Council to advertise for 1965 models.

Officers List 3rd Burglary

A third woman has notified police that an intruder entered her bedroom and stole $25 in cash while she was asleep.

Roxanna McVay, rear 639½ St. Clair Ave., reported the theft of a French purse containing the money, a driver's license and other papers Wednesday morning.

She told officers she had returned home at 1:45 a. m. yesterday, placed her pocketbook on a stand near the bed and went to sleep.

She found the pocketbook on the kitchen table with the purse and money missing.

The intruder gained entrance by ripping the screen door and lifting up the hook, police were told.

A 16-year-old East End boy was taken into custody early yesterday morning for a similar incident at a Mulberry St. home and police still are seeking a burglar who pulled the same trick 90 minutes earlier at a Pennsylvania Ave. home.

Weirton General Hospital Sets Expansion Program

A $3,421,000 long range master expansion program is being undertaken by the Weirton General Hospital to enable the institution to provide additional service to the Tri-State Area. It was announced today by Ed A. Ross, president of the hospital's Board of Trustees.

The decision to proceed with the program was made following completion of a three-year study by the Board of Trustees, medical staff, administration and a consulting firm.

Ross, said: "The study has shown Weirton General Hospital has an occupancy rate 12 per cent higher than other comparable hospitals in the U. S. and that utilization of the diagnostic department has increased, particularly in the area of out-patient service."

The money for the master expansion program will be provided by the Weirton Hospital Co. on a matching basis with federal grants under the Hill-

Burton Act, making a total of $1,710,500 to be provided by the hospital company and a like amount by the fund.

The expansion program will be conducted in phases, with the hospital company to finance its phase with long-term loans.

Financing of the balance will be aided by public subscription, Ross said.

The hospital already has received a grant of $42,000 from the J. C. Williams Trust established by J. C. Williams, a one-time steel executive. It is being used for relocation of the roadway to the hospital.

C. A. Okey, administrator, said work is slated to begin in 1965 on the first phase, which will cost $1,133,000.

A new wing for radiology will be constructed at the rear of present first floor of the pediatric wing.

Plans currently are being prepared for the second phase, to cost $1,288,000, and will include three additional floors to provide 126 additional beds.

Concurrent with the second phase will be a project to air condition the existing facilities at a cost of $250,000.

The third phase—costing $750,000—will include construction of a new separate wing for nursing care.

Upon completion of the plan, the hospital will have a total of 381 beds, including 301 general beds and 80 for chronic care.

The hospital was founded in 1953.

Dominant Interest In Skipper's Life

The Statue Of Liberty

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—In 100,000 miles at sea Capt. George Clancy has never been out of sight of the Statue of Liberty.

In the last 17 years he has made 40,000 round trips from Battery Park to the statue, and brought more than 10 million tourists to see her.

He even met aboard his ship—and later married—the daughter of the National Park Service superintendent who cares for the Statue of Liberty.

But Capt. Clancy has never been inside the monument himself. "I've never had a chance," explained the cherry little Irish skipper. "As soon as I get there, I have to turn around and come back. I'll do it when I retire."

But the great copper lady with the torch remains a dominant interest in the 54-year-old pilot's life. He feels that in a way he "owns a piece" of her.

One of his most cherished possessions is a small piece of metal cut from the statue's base during renovation work several years ago.

And he never tires of watching the emotional reactions of his passengers in viewing the great monument that has symbolized American freedom to so many millions of arriving immigrants.

"Some of them break into tears—especially those from foreign countries," he said.

"Many of them kneel and kiss the earth around the statue. Some take a bit of earth with them."

This Saturday—the Fourth of July—marks the 80th anniversary of the acceptance of the statue as a gift of the French people.

Proud as a bantam rooster, Capt. Clancy will be at the helm today of a spanking new vessel, "Miss Circle Line," as she makes her inaugural trip out to Liberty Island amid a welcoming din from other ships in the harbor.

She cost $850,000, is 155 feet long, and will carry 1,037 passengers. According to Francis J. Barry, Circle Lines president, she is the largest vessel of her type built in this country in 35 years.

Some tourist attractions here, such as the Woolworth Tower, the Flatiron building and Grant's Tomb, have waned and waned in favor. But the popularity of the Statue of Liberty has increased with the passage of time.

Recently from 850,000 to 900,000 people have come to see her each year. That figure is expected to rise to at least one million annually during the New York World's Fair period.

Glass Plants Urge Tariffs Be Left Alone

WASHINGTON (Special)—"Leave the present rates of tariff on our products alone."

That's the request which American sheet glass manufacturers have left with the Tariff Commission here.

The present rates are the result of raises averaging nearly 100 per cent which went into effect June 17, 1962, following escape clause hearings by the commission.

The tariff on sheet glass varies with its weight and with the linear dimensions. A typical window glass tariff is 13 cents per pound.

Two years have elapsed since the higher rates went into effect, and so the commission is reviewing them.

Robinson F. Barker, vice president for glass and glass fibers, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., testified Wednesday in favor of leaving the present rates alone.

"We believe the domestic industry needs to operate under the present tariff relief for an additional, reasonable period of time," he told the commission.

The tariff increase of 1962 has had no appreciable effect on the ratio of imports to domestic shipments, he testified.

"Although total apparent U. S. consumption of sheet glass in 1964 is about 24 per cent higher than it was in 1950, the unfortunate fact remains that the whole amount of that increase continues to be supplied by foreign producers."

He said his company has invested heavily in new equipment, much of it labor-saving devices which have the effect of reducing employment. But he added that if the foreign producers did not take one-fourth of the market, there would be plenty of work for domestic workers.

Congressman Arch Moore, of West Virginia also testified yesterday in favor of leaving the rates at their present levels. He said there is much unemployment in the glass plants of his state, even with the higher tariff rates.

He pointed out that President Johnson is pushing an Appalachia program to improve economic conditions in the 10-state area.

The state of West Virginia is wholly inside Appalachia, he said. Glass-making is a major industry. He thought it would be inconsistent for the government to spend large amounts of money to bolster the economy there with one hand, if with the other it reduced glass tariff and caused further economic dislocations.

Supreme Court Approves Ohio's Ban On Billboards

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Supreme Court has given its approval of Ohio's ban against billboards along the state's interstate highway system.

In a unanimous ruling, the high court overturned a lower court decision which had declared unconstitutional state laws prohibiting billboards within 660 feet of interstate highways.

Wednesday's decision gave the State Highway Department added impetus in its drive to rid the superhighways of outdoor advertising signs and to collect federal bonus money given states for billboard-free interstate roads.

The Supreme Court decision came on Highway Department appeal from an Allen County Common Pleas Court decision which declared the law unconstitutional.

The appeal stemmed from cases involving Ghaster Properties, Inc., and Ghaster Outdoor Advertising, Inc., of Lima. The highway department also had filed suit to force David Steiner and Wensinger Co., Lima, and William Troy and the Consolite Corp., Fremont, to remove signs near Lima.

A highway department spokesman said the appeal in the Ghaster cases was made in a way to settle the other cases.

Ohio Chief Justice Kingsley A. Taft said in the opinion that it is a proper use of the state's police powers to prohibit use of land as a nuisance.

Ohio Senators Differ

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio's two Democratic senators apparently differ on whether they should get pay raises. In the senate vote Wednesday night on an amendment to knock out of the $564 million federal pay raise bill a $7,500-a-year salary increase for senators and representatives, Frank J. Lausche voted for the amendment but Stephen M. Young voted against it. The Senate defeated the amendment, thereby keeping the pay raise intact, 60-25.

Oklahoma Judge Fined, Sentenced In Tax Case

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—A stunned Oklahoma Supreme Court called on N. S. Corn Wednesday to resign as supernumerary judge after he was sentenced and fined for evading federal income taxes.

The U.S. district attorney said the government also had a witness and documents proving that Corn accepted a $150,000 bribe. Corn had told a grand jury his undeclared income was gambling winnings.

Corn, 40 years old and a member of the high court for a quarter of a century, showed no emotion as he was sentenced in federal court to 18 months in prison and fined $11,250.

The tall, slightly stooped judge served on the Supreme Court from 1934 until 1959, when he became a supernumerary judge—one who assists the court part time.

Corn had no comment on the sentence by Judge Roy W. Harper which followed a changing of his plea from innocent to "no defense."

Harper said if Corn is physically unable to serve the sentence, probation will be considered.

all his back taxes, plus fraud penalties, "and has admitted having fraudulently understated his income," the government agreed with Corn's attorney in the change of plea.

Potter said the bribe could be proven by the government. He said it was connected with a pending case in 1956 involving a corporation which was not identified, which needed a "favorable decision." Potter said a government witness was asked how much the decision was worth and when Corn was told $150,000, the judge said he felt something could be worked out.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My doctor told me our baby will be born in July between the 24th and 31st.

Last week my husband asked if the doctor could be wrong and if the baby might come AFTER July 31. That seemed like an off question, so I asked what he had in mind. He replied, "July 31 is the end of the fiscal year of my business and I hope the baby isn't late or I will lose the deduction." I felt rather badly about that remark.

This morning I had a few pains and my husband, said, "wouldn't it be wonderful if the baby was premature?" This really burned me up. He then said most women love premature births so they can avoid those last miserable weeks of pregnancy. He added, "You should be so lucky."

Please set this ignoramus straight on the workings of nature.—MRS. P. G.

Dear P.G.: The ignoramus may not know much about the working of nature but I presume he knows his own business.

The normal tax year ends Dec. 31, but apparently he has received special permission from the Internal Revenue Service to end HIS tax year July 31.

Now about the workings of nature: A full-term baby is best — unless nature or the physician decides otherwise.

In The Army Now

Dear Ann: Three months ago my husband came home from work and told me he was going to join the Army because he hated his job. Ollie said his happiest days were in the service (before we were married) and he wanted to make the Army his career.

He suggested I take the baby and live with my mother until he could send for us. Knowing how bullheaded Ollie is, I didn't try to talk him out of it.

For the last month I've been getting letters from Ollie saying he falls in bed dead every night and he isn't as young as he used to be. He hates his sergeant and his feet are killing him. I wrote him cheerful letters in return, saying we are all well and happy, hoping to perk him up.

Yesterday Ollie wrote back, saying, "Don't tell me how well and happy you are. Tell me you are having a nervous breakdown and that you need me home. I want to get out of here." What shall I do?—MRS. C.

Dear Mrs. C.: Continue to tell Ollie how well and happy you are — plus all the other cheery tidbits you can think of. You might also tell him that since he's going to have to serve his hitch he'd jolly well better make the best of it.

Free Loading Duo

Dear Ann: My husband and I are in our middle 50s. Our two daughters, 23 and 25, are supporting themselves—one teaches school, the other is a stenographer.

Both girls live in boarding houses, about 30 miles from here in opposite directions. They come home every Friday, bringing their dresses to be hemmed and their soiled laundry for me to wash. They leave late Sunday.

My husband and I worked hard to educate our daughters. He is a laborer and I'm a seamstress. Our income is sufficient for us but nothing is left over for extras or saving.

My question? How much are parents expected to do for their children — and for how long? These girls have many friends over and they consume more food during the weekend than we do in two weeks. Never once have they bought so much as a spool of thread or a box of soap for their laundry.

My husband says this is their home and they are entitled to come here as guests whenever they want to. What do you think?—WEARY MOM.

Dear Weary: Girls who come home every weekend with soiled laundry and dresses to be hemmed hardly could be considered guests. Your daughters are living home about one-third of the time, whether they realize it or not.

If they wish to continue they should agree to buy all the weekend groceries and do their own laundry.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Nunn and Beth Nunn have concluded a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Victor Strickler of Westernport, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sanger of Aliquippa and George Dold of Langloeth have concluded visits with the Nuns.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Eaton are visiting friends in Front Royal, Va., Duncan Falls, Ohio, and Parkersburg, W. Va.

Mrs. James Stewart underwent surgery last week in Rochester General Hospital.

Clues Sought In Slaying Of Ohio Girl, 14

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—

The investigation into the vicious slaying of 14-year-old Jessica Minter entered its third day today and authorities apparently have run into a blank wall.

Police and sheriff's deputies Wednesday made a second round of questioning all the teen-agers in the neighborhood just northwest of here where the pretty victim lived with her divorced mother.

Jessica was found dead in her living room Tuesday morning by a girl friend who had stopped by to take her swimming. She had been stabbed 21 times.

Officials failed to turn up any clues Wednesday in their questioning, which again centered on teen-age boys.

Police planned to examine the fingernails of the dead girl today in the hope that traces of skin, fiber, hair or other material which would lead to the slayer will be found.

Officials have said there were no signs of a struggle. It appeared that she answered a knock at the door and was attacked almost immediately, officials said.

An autopsy showed she was not molested sexually. Because of the number of stab wounds, officials theorize she may have been the victim of a thrill killing or that some person in a rage of jealousy or imagined wrong committed the crime. Funeral services for the girl have been set for Friday.

Lisbon District Youth Hurt In Route 7 Crash

Cars driven by Herman Weiman, 46, of E. High St., Lisbon, and Norman Burkley, 18, of N. Market St., Lisbon, were involved in a collision at 12:15 a. m. today on Route 7 four miles south of Rogers, according to the State Highway Patrol at Lisbon. The youth was hurt slightly.

Officers said both cars were headed north and Burkley had halted to allow oncoming traffic to pass before making a left turn. His auto was struck in the rear by the Weiman car. Burkley suffered a whiplash injury of the neck, the patrol said.

Hays Rapped In Dalrymple Talk To GOP

Allen Dalrymple of Wellsville, GOP nominee for 18th Ohio District congressman, continued an attack on the Democratic incumbent, Rep. Wayne L. Hays, in a speech Wednesday night to the East Liverpool Area Republican Club at the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex.

"It is for the representative of this district to represent all the people, to be their voice, and not just a rubber stamp or the tool of any special group or interests," he said.

Dalrymple went on to say that "seniority is not enough if it is not used effectively to the complete advantage of the people of the 18th District."

"The people of this district are going to judge on performance and mere words like 'experience' and 'seniority' are not going to persuade the voters to return this man to office," he said.

Frank Fluno, vice president, presided in the absence of Richard Judge, president. The invocation was given by Sheridan Leasure. The Pledge of Allegiance was read by Richard Carter.

The group has planned a picnic in August, with activities under the direction of Fluno, E. Allan McKeever, Robert Knowles, George Shawke, Ralph Johnston, Everett Holland and Carter.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruise —

DEAR HELOISE: While cleaning closets the other day, I started to discard my husband's wide, out-of-style neckties. Instead, I decided to make neckties for our three small boys.

I measured the proper length for little boys' ties, cut off the wide end of the tie and rehemmed the rest.

The original narrow end now becomes the top side of the tie. And don't throw away the wide part you cut off . . . those little make-believe handkerchiefs you see in boys' suit pockets can be made from the point of the wide end to match their ties.

E. ROBINSON.

I think this is about the trickiest thing I have heard of yet. And to think the little tykes have a handkerchief to match. Mommy, you are wonderful.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My solution to the problem of keeping frozen foods frozen after grocery shopping is a plastic picnic cooler. I always keep our cooler in the car. It is very lightweight and cost less than three dollars.

It is easy to have the checker at the store put the meats, frozen items, butter, etc. in one bag and with no fuss this can be put in your cooler.

Now I never worry if I am delayed on the return journey.

C. H.

That's a marvelous idea!

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Your tip recently about using cuphooks for hanging up small items, gave me an idea for our many toothbrushes.

Our laminated wall discouraged the use of hooks, so I got a chrome tie-rack which only needed two screws to hold it.

I partially straightened the rounded ends of the hooks on the tierack and hung up the brushes neat as you please.

JO GREENWELL.

DEAR HELOISE: Summer camp time is upon us so I'd like to pass along a few tips that I picked up when I used to go to camp.

First of all, NEVER send good luggage. It'll never come back the same way!

If they'll be cooking outdoors some of the time and have a mess kit, paint their name on the handles with nail polish. Then make a bag out of two discolored towels sewn together on three sides, with a drawstring of twine at the top. The dishes can be put inside the bag and hung in their cabins or tents until the next meal without worries of where to put them.

Make a complete list of everything you send and tape it inside the top of the suitcase. When they pack to come home they can see exactly what they have and make sure they bring home everything. We hope!

Other necessities: shampoo in a plastic container, shower soap on a cord so it can be hung around the neck, insect repellent and a lotion for possible sunburn, and cream for chapped skin. Also include a few clothespins. And warm pajamas and sweaters are a must for chilly nights.

Most camps send a list of the things to bring, which is a big help, but I am sending my suggestions anyway, knowing from experience that these things come in handy.

JONELLE BLAIR.

DEAR HELOISE: When wishing to give a semblance of fragrance to artificial flowers . . .

Take a ball of cotton and put a drop or two of your favorite cologne or perfume on it. Place this in the center of the artificial bouquet and this will cause the bouquet to emit a pleasant fragrance.

Example: one could use gardenia perfume for artificial gardenias.

MARIANNE PERRY.

DEAR HELOISE: Small children cannot readily tell the front from the back of many garments when they are learning to dress themselves.

I sewed a small piece of colored bias tape on the inside front of pants, T-shirts, etc. I explained that the tab went next to their skin, and in front. Now, no more running to mother to find out which goes where.

District Man Honored For Helping Save Boy

William L. Grier of Township Line Rd., a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 66, received a special plaque at the VFW state convention over the weekend for a humanitarian deed.

Grier, post commander, who helped save Bruce McBee, 14, in a near-drowning at Lake Samary last month, was given the plaque by Richard Ress, retiring state commander.

The plaque was authorized by the state VFW. Grier and Joseph Torrence of Kelly Ave., past 6th District commander, attended the event.

Torrence, who was on the credentials committee and was chairman of the district steering committee, was elected vice president of the Past Commanders Association of Ohio. He will be on the registration committee of the national convention at Cleveland in August.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Will Lyndon And Barry Shoot It Out?

Is there going to be an "I Love Lyndon" or "Make Room for Barry" series on TV this fall? The networks still hope President Johnson will agree to confront his opponent on TV for a series of debates in the Kennedy-Nixon tradition of 1960.

Actually, there isn't Hal Humphrey much chance it will happen, despite pressure from the networks and a congressional easing of the "equal time" restrictions.

Richard Nixon, writing in the Saturday Evening Post, says it's President Johnson's duty to debate on TV. By the time Nixon winds up his article, however, you discover he has unconsciously given Johnson every reason to ignore any kind of TV confrontation.

Recalling his own experience in that first TV debate with Jack Kennedy, Nixon says, "What irritated me was that while I had put all my emphasis on content, the thing that influenced the television audience was my appearance."

NIXON FATTENED UP and got a professional make-up job for his second debate with Kennedy, he says, then adds, "But even if I hadn't been able to correct my televised appearance, I think it wouldn't have made a crucial difference. It is the man himself and what he says that ultimately affects people."

Nixon obviously remains confused over just what did him in during the TV debates, or else he finally is conceding that the better man won.

At any rate, as a loser, Nixon certainly does not build a very convincing argument for President Johnson's taking the plunge.

He accuses President Johnson of repudiating President Kennedy's decision to debate whoever would have run against him, had Kennedy lived.

Kennedy did not say, however, that all Presidents should debate on TV. He only said that he would. But Kennedy practically won the election, according to many experts, by his TV confrontations with Nixon. Therefore, Kennedy hardly could have put himself in the position of refusing such a challenge.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON has not said he would not debate on TV. He knows it will depend upon how much fuss is raised and on what position his opponent takes.

Former President Dwight Eisenhower told CBS' Walter Cronkite on a TV program in 1961 that he did not believe a president should engage in TV debates.

Sen. Barry Goldwater turned down an invitation from CBS to debate Gov. Nelson Rockefeller during the recent primaries. What position Goldwater will take if he wins the nomination, he has not yet said.

TV continues to pose a lot of imponderables for the politician. Nixon is not even sure himself now that the debating candidates should be in the same TV studio.

He proposes separate studios "so that lighting and other technical factors could be adjusted to suit each one's needs."

NIXON RECALLS his own experience when his aides boosted the air-conditioning in the studio for the second debate, because he is a sweater.

"I remember that Bobby Kennedy had a fine row with our TV man, trying to get the room warmer," Nixon writes.

For a man who states that it's the candidate himself and what he says that ultimately affects people, Richard Nixon continues to have a vivid recollection of what a man's appearance on TV can cost him.

There is every reason to believe that too many people look upon TV debates as either a beauty contest or a Western shoot-out—or both.

Civil War Buffs Due In Maryland Weekend Events

Many of the area members of the reactivated 19th Ohio and 104th Ohio Civil War units who took part in a re-enactment of Keenesaw Mountain battle Monday in Georgia also will participate in commemorative events in Maryland over the weekend.

Lt. Col. Joseph Robbins of Globe St., commander of the 19th, said about 70 men served with the "Union Forces" in the Keenesaw event — 15 from the East Liverpool-Wellsville area. The group, with their wives and children, stopped at motels or camped out on the way to Georgia and back.

Robbins said the whole program was "colorful and impressive," especially the Southern balls which the men attended in uniform and the women in long gowns.

A number of the area men are expected to take part in a re-enactment of Gilson's Raid at Baltimore Saturday and the Battle of the Monocacy at Frederick, Md., Sunday.

On the way back from Georgia, the group also participated in the re-enactment of Gen. Sherman's crossing of the Edisto River at Orangeburg, S. C.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Children Should Have Responsibilities

Today I break my rule "never to quote from an anonymous letter." Here is one merely signed, "A Mother." It describes an all-too-prevalent attitude of parents in general and some fathers in particular.

"I believe in discipline and chores for children. However, Dr. Garry Myers there are some people who believe that children shouldn't have to do anything, even taking care of themselves or their own school work."

This is based on the theory that they are only children and they will have to shoulder responsibilities when they are grown. Also, we should do everything in our power to make life easy and satisfy every desire because they will be with us only a few years.

"And this won't spoil them because if a child is going to be spoiled it won't matter how you train him, he will be anyway and some children can't be spoiled no matter how much you give them. This may work with one or two but what about the family of several children?"

"MY HUSBAND was raised by this method and he feels I'm trying to run him if I ask for any money whatever or ask him to pick up his clothes. He says our teen-age daughter can dry dishes if she wants, but our three sons' hands will never be disgraced by doing housework."

"His mother could do it so I certainly should. In the interest of a halfway clean house, it is easier to do everything myself than fight with them or to give any orders which they feel undermine my husband's position as head of the family."

You and I wonder how many fathers still think that neither they nor their sons should ever do housework; and how many parents suppose their children shouldn't have to do anything at home. Whatever the number of such parents, we can be sure there is a larger number of children who believe they should not be required to do anything they don't feel like doing. Of those parents who believe children should be assigned regular chores, how many have been able to carry out such requirements effectively?

Here are a few suggestions this group of parents might deem worth considering:

1. LONG BEFORE the child is old enough to take responsibility for any assigned chores, he needs to learn to wait on himself and do for himself what he is able to do—feed himself, dress himself, send himself to bed. The more he does for himself by the time he is six, the better he is prepared to do an assigned chore.

2. One definite thing almost any child at the age of six or seven may learn to do well every morning is to make his own bed and hang up his nightclothes.

3. When you assign him any regular chores, at the age of five or six, choose just one he can do well. Add no more until he has practiced in doing this without your telling him when to begin it or your continually prompting and urging him till he finishes it. 4. Set as your goal then and later not the number of chores he must do but the number you can require him to do under his own supervision. 5. Devise ways whereby he can no more escape the few assigned chores than he can escape breathing.

6. Consider the merits of your helping him unexpectedly now and then rather than having him help you.

Princess Dances In Near Topless Dress In London

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret danced in a near topless dress Wednesday night and her husband, Lord Snowdon, sported a wig with a bow in it.

Along with the wig, the princess' ex-photographer husband wore an eggplant-colored velvet jacket with huge lace cuffs and a flyaway panel at the back. Knee breeches, white stockings and a gold waistcoat completed Snowdon's ensemble.

The princess wore a wig, too, a smoky blue creation to match a jeweled gown of pale blue silk. The neckline plunged down to a corselet embroidered in gold and pearls.

A huge butterfly clasp holding a fichu ensured it stopped somewhat short of toplessness.

Around her neck the princess wore more jewels ending in a magnificent pendant.

Neither the princess nor Lord Snowdon was setting a new fashion. They were guests of London's Lord Mayor Clement Harman at a Georgian ball and all the guests wore the styles of two centuries ago.

In those days the very low neckline was customary and raised no eyebrows.

Koufax, Marichal Ring Up 11th Pitching Victories

By MIKE RATHET
Sandy Koufax just can't shake Juan Marichal.
Or is it the other way around? Koufax had his greatest season in 1963, winning 25 games. And so did Marichal.
Now Koufax, with seven straight victories, has brought his victory total for this season to 11. And so has Marichal.
Marichal, the right-handed ace of the National League leading San Francisco Giants, got in a little earlier this time, becoming the majors' first 11-game winner in a 2-1 day game victory over Pittsburgh Wednesday.

Koufax, the left-handed ace of the eight-place Los Angeles Dodgers, followed suit in a 3-2 night game triumph over Philadelphia that dropped the second-place Phillies 1½ games behind the Giants.
Neither had an easy time of it. Marichal, 11-3 on the season with a 2.38 earned run average, was touched for eight hits. Koufax, 11-4 with a 1.84 ERA, allowed five, including a two-run homer by John Callison that provided the Phillies with an early lead.
Koufax, however, had the more impressive statistics, reaching still another plateau in strikeouts while continuing his winning streak against the Phillies, who have been unable to beat the Dodger dandy since Sept. 27, 1961.

Downing the Phillies for the eighth straight time, including last month's no-hitter, Koufax struck out 10 batters—the fifth time this season he has accomplished that feat and the 56th time in his career. No. 10 this time was West Covington.
No. 10 also was No. 1,600 of Koufax' career.
Besides Koufax and Marichal, two other pitchers who will be on the National League All-Star team—Chicago's Dick Ellsworth and Houston's Dick Farrell—went after victory No. 11. Neither got it.

Pete Rose's homer in the 10th inning made Ellsworth a loser as Cincinnati edged the Cubs 6-5. Farrell was tagged hard, but escaped without a defeat as the New York Mets pounded out 16 hits and whipped the Colts 8-6.
In the other NL game, Curt Simmons won his ninth game as St. Louis belted Milwaukee 6-1. Marichal got all the support he needed in the first two innings as Willie Mays cracked his 23rd homer in the first inning and the Giants scored again in the second against Bob Veale on consecutive doubles by Del Crandal and Jose Pagan.

The Pirates scored in the fifth on a walk, an error and singles by Bill Virdon and Roberto Clemente, but Marichal stopped them the rest of the way.
Callison's homer in the fourth inning, following a triple by Cookie Rojas, gave the Phillies and Dennis Bennett a 2-0 lead. But Bennett, 8-5, couldn't hold it.
The Dodgers scored in the fifth on a walk, John Roseboro's single and a ground out, then pulled ahead with two runs in the sixth on singles by Maury

Wills, Willie Davis and Ron Fairly.
Ron Santo hit his 14th and 15th homers and Billy Williams collected his 19th as the Cubs built a 5-1 lead going into the ninth against the Reds.
Errors by Andre Rodgers and Ellsworth led to four unearned runs for Cincinnati in the ninth—two scoring on Deron Johnson's triple—before Rose came up with two out in the 10th and tagged Ellsworth with his seventh loss.
Farrell, 10-2, was trying for his first victory since June 14, but gave up nine hits and had to leave in the third inning.

Ed Kranepool slapped a single, double and triple for the Mets. Larry Elliot collected a homer and two singles and John Stephenson stroked three singles. Walt Bond hit two homers for the Colts and Bob Aspromonte one.
Simmons, 9-6, got all the support he needed from Julian Javier, who singled in the first run in the Cardinals' three-run second inning and hit a three-run homer in the third inning.
The Braves spoiled Simmons' shutout bid in the ninth when Hank Aaron doubled and came around on a fly ball and an infield out.

Kansas City Edges Yankees In 10th, 5-4

Aguirre's 3-Hit Job Stops Tribe

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Mark Sept. 20 down on your calendar, Hank Aguirre.
If you maintain your present pace, that's the day you'll win your next game.
Aguirre recorded his second victory of the season Wednesday night, pitching a three-hitter as Detroit stopped Cleveland 3-1.
The 32-year-old left-hander hadn't won for 45 days, or since he beat the Indians 3-1 May 17. And it took him 25 days after his first start this year to earn that triumph.
So, working on the rate Aguirre's opponents have burdened him with, he should go 81 days before winning again. The Tiger's opponent Sept. 20? Cleveland, of course.
The season has been extremely frustrating for Aguirre, who won 30 games the two previous years.
Of his first five starts, the Tigers lost three by one run, won another by that margin and tied the fifth. Aguirre's sixth start brought his first victory, but he promptly dropped three straight decisions.
His latest triumph came in his 12th start and his second complete game.
He gave up a single to Vic Davalillo in the first inning and a home run to Al Smith in the second. Then he didn't allow a hit until John Romano singled in the seventh.
Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore defeated Los Angeles 4-2, Kansas City edged New York 5-4 in 11 innings, Chicago nipped Washington 8-7 and 2-1 and Minnesota bombed Boston 14-3.
In the National League, San Francisco edged Pittsburgh 2-1, Los Angeles nipped Philadelphia 3-2, Cincinnati trimmed Chicago 6-5 in 10 innings, St. Louis trounced Milwaukee 6-1 and New York outlasted Houston 8-6.
Smith's homer tied the game 1-1, but Bubba Phillips stroked a homer in the fifth inning for the deciding run. Phillips singled in the eighth and dashed home from first base on Jerry Lumpe's single.
Baltimore erupted for three runs in the eighth for their 11th victory in 13 games. Jackie Brandt singled home the tying and winning runs with a single after Willie Kirkland and Jerry Adair singled and were sacrificed along. The Angels had taken a 2-1 lead in their eighth on Bob Perry's run-scoring double.
Bill Bryan's 11th-inning homer off Ralph Terry carried the Athletics past the Yankees. Kansas City had grabbed a 4-3 lead in the ninth on run-producing singles by Wayne Causey and George Williams, but Joe Pepitone's single, a double by Johnny Blanchard and Tony Kubek's sacrifice fly sent the game into the 10th.
Joel Horlen hurled a five-hitter for the White Sox in the second game of their doubleheader. Three of the Senators' hits never left the infield. Chicago scored in the sixth on a double by Jim Landis and Pete Ward's single and in the seventh when Tom McCraw tripled and Gerry McNertney hit a sacrifice fly.
Singles by Joe Cunningham and Ron Hansen drove in two seventh-inning runs that erased Washington's 7-6 lead in the opener. The Senators had jumped in front in their seventh as Jim King clouted a two-run homer and pinch hitter Don Lock connected with two on.

Bunning, Pascual Early Choices To Hurl Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Perfect game pitcher Jim Bunning of the Philadelphia Phillies and 20-game winning candidate Camilo Pascual of the Minnesota Twins are the early choices to oppose each other in the major league All-Star game at Shea Stadium next Tuesday.
The two star right-handers were among the 17 pitchers selected by rival All-Star Managers Walter Alton of the Los Angeles Dodgers and Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox. Alton picked seven pitchers, Lopez eight.
Alton selected four right-handers and three left-handers. The southpaws included Dodger Sandy Koufax, whose 10 victories include a no-hitter against Philadelphia; Dick Ellsworth, who has won 10 games for the Chicago Cubs and Chris Short of the Phillies, who owns a 6-4 record.
The right-handers, besides Bunning, include the Dodgers' Don Drysdale (10-7), Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants (11-3), and still another 10-game winner, Dick Farrell of the Houston Colts.
Lopez picked four right-handers and four left-handers. In addition to Pascual, an eight-game winner, other right-handers were Dean Chance of Los Angeles, Dick Radatz of Boston and John Wyatt of Kansas City. Radatz and Wyatt are bullpen specialists who own 11 victories and 28 saves between them.
Whitey Ford, dean of the New York Yankee pitching staff, headed the southpaws. The left-handed list included Jack Kralik of Cleveland and Gary Peters and Juan Pizarro of Lopez' Chicago White Sox. Ford has won his last 10 decisions after an opening day loss. Pizarro has won 10, Kralik eight and Peters seven.
Although Koufax and Ford rate among the most glamorous names in baseball, the starting choices are likely to be right-handers because of the preponderance of right-handed hitters in the starting line-ups of both squads.
Billy Williams of the Cubs is the only left-handed hitter among the NL starters, Tony Oliva of Minnesota is the only strictly southpaw swinger in the AL starting line-up. Mickey Mantle of the Yankees is a switch hitter.

Reynolds Posts LL No-Hit Game

D. Reynolds placed his name on the Little League record books for pitching a no-hitter as he turned in the masterpiece in an 11-2 victory for the Medics over McBurney's Wednesday.
The victory assured the Medics of at least a tie for the second half title in the National Division.
Reynolds fanned 11 batters in route to the no-hit victory while J. Moore smacked a triple and single and drove in four runs. Frederick came up with three singles and showed three RBI's.
Golden Star tripped Vernon Dell, 10-6 and Veteran Plate Glass outlasted Travelers Hotel, 7-4, in two other games.
Jim Massey with two singles plus doubles by Larry Carter and Gary Klembara paced the Golden Stars.
Golden Star, McHenry and Cunningham had two hits each for the Vernon Dell. Klembara was the winning pitcher.
Veteran Plate Glass outlasted Travelers 14-10 to win in extra innings. Randy McVay pitched six innings but Mike Lockhart claimed the victory in relief. Joe Walker led the winners at the plate hitting for the cycle.
Lockhart clubbed two singles and double and Smith homered.
3 Win $15,216
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Three bettors collected $15,216 apiece Wednesday night in the largest twin double payoff of the William Penn Racing Association meet at Liberty Bell Park.

Tebbetts To Join Tribe On Friday

DETROIT (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts, who seems to be getting healthier daily after suffering a heart attack, Friday rejoins the Cleveland Indians, who are suffering from a terrible case of "slumpitis."

The Tribe manager, who was stricken April 1 in spring training, got the doctors' okay Wednesday after tests in Cleveland Clinic.

Tebbetts indicated George Strickland, who was a coach for Tebbetts and has been acting manager during his illness, will work with him in the dugout.

"I plan to gradually ease myself into full responsibility," Tebbetts said. He did not indicate how long this might take.

Dr. W. L. Prouditt, a heart specialist, said Tebbetts "has made an excellent recovery. I anticipate no difficulty, and I think he will be fine."

Gabe Paul, the Tribe's general manager, was elated over the doctors' reports.

"I am so happy about the diagnosis," he said. "Birdie must now condition himself just like a ball player, and he will not assume full duty until he's ready for this activity."

The Indians lost their fifth straight Wednesday night despite a fine performance by southpaw Tommy John. The Tigers' Hank Aguirre was too tough for the Indians, giving up only three hits for a 3-1 Detroit victory.

Al Smith's second inning homer accounted for the only Indian run.

John allowed only three hits and struck out six before being removed for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Pedro Ramos (4-5) pitches the final game of the Detroit series tonight, facing Mickey Lolich (7-6) of the Tigers.

Big Weekend Slated For Waterford Park

Waterford Park is planning one of the biggest weekends ever staged at this Northern Panhandle track at Chester, W. Va.

General Manager Harry R. Bell announced that there will be 12 races on Friday starting at 4:15 p. m. and a twin-bill is being arranged for Saturday. The 15 race card of the Fourth will start at ten-thirty in the morning with six races followed by a luncheon break, at which time the patrons will be entertained by the Holidaires, who will play fine music in the winners circle until the horses go to the post in the first race of the afternoon card at about 2.

The morning session will feature a daily double in the first two races and a perfecta in the sixth. The afternoon program will also have a double in the first two races and a perfecta in the fifth and last races.

Friday's program will be studied with three allowance affairs, drawing horses of every division, going in the featured ninth, tenth and eleventh races.

Saturday's card will be highlighted by the running of the Independence Day Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward, going a mile and one sixteenth for a purse of $3500.

Boros Shows 48 Errorless Games At 3rd

CINCINNATI (AP) — Steve Boros wanted to be a "cool, graceful third baseman" but changed into a scrambling, aggressive type this season and now holds a new Cincinnati Reds club record of 48 errorless games for the position.

"I watched Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs play the position while I was with that team last year," Boros said Thursday after setting the record. "I think he is the best third baseman I have ever seen."

"Before studying his style, I was sold on becoming a cool, graceful player of the Gil McDougald type. I changed my philosophy after watching Santo play."

The old Cincinnati record for errorless games at third base was 47 and was set by Heine Groh in 1920. The National League record of 57 is held by Bob Aspromonte of Houston. He set it in 1962.

Boros has not made a fielding error since he joined the club May 12. He has had 29 putouts and 78 assists for 107 total chances during the stretch. He is also batting in the .280s—better than ever before in the majors.

He came from San Deigo in the Pacific Coast League, where he had been batting .300 and fielding well.

Three years ago, Boros made 15 errors in 116 games for Detroit and 21 errors in the same number of contests in 1962.

Santo kept him off the hot base while he was with the Cubs last season, so he did duty at first base and in the outfield. A lot of hard work and determination helped Boros to return to the major leagues.

"I knew I had a good, strong arm and that my hands were good enough, so I worked to improve my fielding," he said. "I studied all the third basemen I saw, but it was from Santo I learned the most."

"I decided that when a ball was hit at my position, I was going to get it. That meant scrambling and diving and sometimes stopping it with my body."

Boros made one of his diving, scrambling plays in the fifth inning Wednesday night to throw out Dick Bertell of the Chicago Cubs with a runner on second. The Reds won that game, 6-5, in 10 innings.

Yesterday's Stars

BATTING — Bob Allison, Twins, drove in three runs with two doubles in seven-run fourth inning upriser, then hit two-run homer in ninth as Minnesota crushed Boston 14-3.

PITCHING — Hank Aguirre, Tigers, won his first game since May 17, setting Cleveland down on three hits for 3-1 victory.

Wimbledon Tournney Will Remain Amateur

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
WIMBLEDON, England (AP) —The Wimbledon tennis tournament—where the girls take over the spotlight today—is going to stay amateur. And most of the star players here say they aren't sorry.

In fact, Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., beaten in his bid to retain his men's singles title, said he probably wouldn't even enter the tournament if it was open to the pros.

Britain will try again next week at the meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation at Vienna to get permission to run an open tournament—pros and amateurs in the same field.

But the move seems doomed to failure because both the United States and Australia have said they oppose it.

Two stars eliminated from the men's singles in Wednesday's semi-finals made it clear they agree with that stand. McKinley, beaten by Fred Stolle of Australia 4-6, 10-8, 9-7, 6-4, said Wimbledon is thriving as an amateur tournament and would gain nothing by admitting the pros.

Wilhelm Bungert of Germany, beaten 6-3, 15-13, 6-0 by top-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia, said he wouldn't come to Wimbledon if it was open.

Emerson, 28, who is making his 11th bid for the Wimbledon tournament, said "I'm happy with the tournament the way it is."

Billie Jean Moffitt, the American Wightman Cup star from Long Beach, Calif., was the only American hope left in the tournament. She faced top-seeded Margaret Smith, the defending champion, on the center court in a semifinal match.

Mario Bueno of the Brazil, winner here in 1959 and 1960, faced Lesley Turner of Australia in the other.

Paden City Man Lands Rainbow In Beaver Creek

A Paden City man, visiting in East Liverpool, made several rare catches in Beaver Creek near the Pennsylvania state line.

Bob Price, a former East Liverpool resident, pulled three Rainbow trout from the stream Tuesday and early Wednesday morning.

They ranged in size from 10 1/2 to 13 inches. Rainbow trout are usually found in colder water and Price said he made his catch in the backwater. He also said there are more Rainbow in Beaver Creek.

Some sportsmen point out that the Rainbow probably came down from the Allegheny River and backed up into Beaver Creek from the Ohio River.

Keep In Trim

Plan Mar-Sized Menus—Slimming Style

When the doctor puts the head of the house on a severely restricted diet, the lady of the house has her work cut out for her. One home emaker asks for help.

"My husband has high blood pressure and a heart condition. I have tried to keep him on a 1,000 calorie diet. This limits my choice in foods to such an extent that he is neither happy with his meals nor satisfied with the amounts allowed. His salt intake is restricted to a small amount used in cooking. Any suggestions would be greatly appreciated."

THE FIRST suggestion is for you to ask the doctor if he can have 1,300 to 1,400 calories a day. Unless he is restricted to bed, he can reduce 1 1/2 to 2 pounds a week on 1,400 calories a day. This more liberal diet allows for three moderate meals, plus a pick-up in the late afternoon.

To keep the nutrients up and the calories down, build each meal around a high value protein food — lean meat, fish or chicken, a 4 oz. portion cooked weight; an egg; cottage cheese, 1/4 cup serving; plus milk or buttermilk.

A man needs 70 grams of protein a day. To figure, use this rule of thumb: Count 7 grams of protein for each ounce of lean meat, fish, or chicken, cheese or cottage cheese; egg, and glass of milk.

Fats must be strictly limited.

Follow the doctor's orders as to kind of fat as well as amounts. Trim all fat from meat and cook so as to eliminate animal fat. . . broil, roast, or bake. Or use a special no-fat fry-pan.

Include one starchy food with a meal — bread, a potato or other starch. Use plenty of vegetables, salads and fresh fruits.

SALT WILL be missed less if you bring out the subtle flavor of vegetables with the use of herbs. The whole secret to the use of herbs is the light touch. One pinch means only one pinch. Try these combinations for magic flavor touch: Basil on asparagus, carrots, green beans and tomatoes. Dill is right on Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, green beans, cabbage and carrots. Marjoram is especially good with carrots and spinach, also green beans. A gourmet touch can be given mushrooms, string beans and tomatoes with oregano. Fresh mint is a favorite with carrots and peas. With the squash family, nutmeg is the delightful spice to use; also with spinach.

Include some of the trimmings; this makes food more appealing. Use a teaspoon of melted table fat plus lemon juice on vegetables, add crunchy water chestnuts to salads and strong beans, and a "cream" sauce made with skim milk, or a sprinkle of grated cheese. Diet fare can be wonderfully good eating.

Send stamped, self-addressed, long envelope for Eat To Build Leanness. Address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of The Review. Post card requests cannot be answered.

Reason Federal Debt Keeps Rising

As Almost Every Year, Outgo Will Top Income

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP)—The rush to hail all the economic records set in the first half of the year has hidden some of the late June and early July rites that go on year after year with little change.

The legal federal debt limit has been raised again, and at the last moment. The debt already had gone up. Congress made it legal for the Treasury to live with the accomplished fact.

Federal excise taxes on a limited list of items have been extended another year. These temporary rates have been continued each June for a decade. Treasury statisticians are busy working on the books of the fiscal year that has just ended and will report soon. As usual, even inevitable, the actual spending and the actual receipts won't match the estimates made when the budget was presented 18 months ago, nor the revised estimates given Congress six months ago.

As in almost every year for decades, the final result will be a deficit, with outgo topping income. That is why the federal debt keeps going up.

This has its counterpart in many family budgets and explains why the total of consumer debt also rises with predictable regularity.

Statisticians are quick to point out that there is nothing necessarily alarming in any of this. The economy is growing. Along with it, the spending of consumers and of government increases. So the private and public debt goes up. Combined it exceeds a trillion dollars. But assets are even higher.

Nor is there anything unprecedented about Congress being reluctant to relinquish any tax or higher rate, however temporary may be its label. Congress has continued for one more year the $1.9-billion in federal excise taxes on jewelry, cosmetics, furs, luggage, liquor, cigarettes, autos, local phone calls and airplane tickets. The rates were set during the Korean War as a temporary measure.

Congress also likes to keep a legal limit on the federal debt, although the real one of $312 billion at the moment is far above the basic limit of $285 billion. This base has been exceeded by regular temporary boostings of the ceiling.

So, as records are set, business goes on as usual on many fronts, both government and private. And changes often are in dollar terms rather than in the items themselves.

In Light Of U.S. Court Decision

Ohio Commission Okays Reapportionment Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Legislative Service Commission, the fact-finding arm of the Ohio General Assembly, has approved a study of the state's method of apportioning the assembly's membership.

The study, approved unanimously by commission members Wednesday, is to be made in the light of U.S. Supreme Court decisions requiring that apportionment of both houses of bicameral state legislatures be made solely on a population basis.

Under Ohio's 1903 "Hanna Amendment" to the state constitution, each of Ohio's 88 counties is given a representative in the House regardless of population.

The commission authorized House Speaker Roger Cook to appoint a committee to make the study.

Cloud, commission chairman, said his appointments will include floor leaders of each house of the General Assembly and chairmen of House and Senate judiciary committees, along with other legislators to give the study committee geographical representation.

Cloud said that although litigation challenging the Hanna Amendment is still pending in court, a study should get under way in the expectation that the amendment might be knocked out.

Constitutional amendments for approval by voters probably would be required, Cloud said, because Ohio's constitution is self-operating in reapportionment matters.

The commission received a preliminary report Wednesday on Little Hoover Commission recommendations for savings in state operations.

It was explained that the commission, composed of management experts, made several suggestions requiring legislative action to put into effect.

Atlanta Police Seeking Identity Of Hanged Youth

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Police are trying to establish the identity of a Negro youth found hanged in a wooded area of northwest Atlanta.

The victim, clad in a white T-shirt, blue jeans, tennis shoes and socks, was found Wednesday hanging from a large oak tree.

Detective Sgt. J. E. Helms and Detective Harry McCollister said he appeared to be between 14 and 16 years old. A search of his pockets yielded only two apparent door keys.

Dr. Henry Snell, assistant Fulton County medical examiner, said the boy had been dead about eight hours when found. He placed the time of death at about noon.

Officers declined to theorize on what might have happened until the identity of the victim is established.

The wooded area, about eight blocks from the nearest occupied house, is being cleared under an urban renewal program. It is a fringe area with both white and Negro residents, but officers said no disturbances have occurred there.

City Driver Hurt In Canton Crash

A 22-year-old city driver is in "fair" condition at a Canton hospital with injuries suffered Wednesday when his car ran off Route 30 east of Canton and struck a utility pole.

Robert Stewart of Cain St. suffered a broken right leg, cuts of the face and multiple cuts and bruises of the body in the crash which occurred after he fell asleep while headed east about 1 1/2 miles east of Canton. He is in Aultman Hospital in Canton.

In what the Ohio Highway Patrol called a coincidence, his car was struck by another auto while being towed to a garage—the other driver, Ronald May of Dalton, having fallen asleep at the wheel.

May, in "fair" condition at a Massillon Hospital, was cited for failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Former Dallas Mayor

Bares Death Threats

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Former Dallas Mayor Earle Cabell and his wife Wednesday disclosed a story of death threats which prompted constant police protection for two months after President Kennedy was shot.

The police guard began Nov. 24, the day accused assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was shot by Jack Ruby.

A Junior Editors Quiz About FAIRS

QUESTION: When and where was the first World's Fair?

ANSWER: The World's Fair idea is often traced back to the "Exposition of the Industry of All Nations" which opened in London, England in 1851. The exposition was housed in a huge building called the Crystal Palace which covered 19 acres. In 1853 a similar Crystal Palace was built in New York. Our picture shows this building with the tall spire which was an observatory. Many large expositions followed, but the clumsy word "exposition" was changed to "fair" in the New York World's Fair of 1939-40. The Brussels World Fair of 1958 displayed advances in atomic physics and the present New York World's Fair gives visitors thrilling glimpses of the wonders of our new age of technology. Long before the idea of a world-wide exposition, however, fairs were used as trading centers for warring tribes. At the fair grounds a truce would be declared and you would sell a jade ornament to a man instead of throwing a spear at him. Later fairs had a religious meaning and they grew to be festivals where people met to have a good time and exchange ideas, as well as goods.

FOR YOU TO DO: It may not be possible for you to go to this year's World's Fair, but you can make a scrapbook of newspaper articles which will get you acquainted with the new idea everyone is talking about these days.

Billy Horn of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., wins this week's grand prize of a set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you may win the weekly prize or the daily prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash.

Landing Gear Breaks, 3 Injured Slightly
NEW YORK (AP)—The landing gear broke off an American Airlines jet that veered from a runway after touching down at Kennedy Airport Wednesday night in a thunderstorm. Three persons were injured slightly.

All the passengers—only five—slid to the ground on an escape rope. Two suffered rope burns of the hands and fingers. The Boeing 707-720 jet, Flight 64, from Los Angeles had made a stop at Philadelphia. The seven-member crew was from the Los Angeles area.

1 Killed, 3 Injured In 2-Car Collision
MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)—One man is dead and three other persons are in City Hospital with injuries from a two-car collision at a U. S. 62 intersection in Perry Township.

William Crousser, 53, of Canton, died Wednesday night of injuries received in the crash several hours earlier. His wife, Virginia, 48, and two other persons were reported in fair condition.

Small Bomb Damages Crane In Cleveland
CLEVELAND (AP)—A small bomb damaged a crane early today near Public Square, where it was being used in the remodeling of the Marshall Building, police reported.

The explosion broke windows and damaged gears in the 200-foot boom crane. Police investigators said the explosive apparently had been placed beneath the cab of the heavy duty crane.

Paper that is "sized" is given a protective coating that fills in the pores or determines the kind of finish.
